

San Francisco Symphony Chorus Biography

One of America's most distinguished choruses, the San Francisco Symphony Chorus is known for its precision, power, and versatility, and has been led by Chorus Director Jenny Wong since September 2023. The SF Symphony Chorus is comprised of 32 AGMA and about 130 non-AGMA members. Former San Francisco Chronicle classical music critic Joshua Kosman has praised the Chorus for its "tonal beauty" and "customary vibrancy and ardor."

Most recently, the Chorus can be heard on the San Francisco Symphony's recording of György Ligeti's Lux Aeterna with Esa-Pekka Salonen, released as a digital-only audio-visual performance in January 2022, and later with Apple Music Classical when the app launched in March 2023. The recording received a Grammy nomination for Best Choral Performance in 2024. The Chorus was also featured in the SFS Media recording of Charles Ives's Symphonies Nos. 3 and 4 along with Music Director Laureate Michael Tilson Thomas and the San Francisco Symphony, released in November 2019.

Established in 1973 at the request of then-music director Seiji Ozawa, the SF Symphony Chorus has sung under the world's major conductors, including SF Symphony music directors Esa-Pekka Salonen, MTT, Herbert Blomstedt, Edo de Waart, and Ozawa; as well as guest conductors including Vladimir Ashkenazy, James Conlon, Valery Gergiev, Neville Marriner, Kurt Masur, Roger Norrington, David Robertson, Robert Shaw, and Yuri Temirkanov, among others. Louis Magor served as the Chorus's director during its first decade, and in 1982 Margaret Hillis assumed the ensemble's leadership as interim director. The following year Vance George was named director, serving through the 2005–06 season. Ragnar Bohlin served as chorus director from March 2007–August 2021.

Recordings featuring the SF Symphony Chorus have won a total of eight Grammy awards, including three for Best Choral Performance. SFS Media's recording of Mahler's Symphony No. 8 with MTT and the SF Symphony and Chorus won three 2010 Grammys, including the award for Best Choral Performance. Previous Grammys awarded to the Chorus include Best Choral Performance for Brahms's Ein deutsches Requiem in 1995; Best Choral Performance for Orff's Carmina burana in 1992; Best Classical Album with the SF Symphony for Mahler's Symphony No. 3 and Kindertotenlieder in 2004; and Best Classical Album for the recording of Stravinsky's Perséphone, as part of a collection of the composer's music, in 2000. In February 2001, the Chorus made its Carnegie Hall debut in two sold-out performances of music by Mahler and Stravinsky with MTT and the San Francisco Symphony. Members of the Chorus can also be heard on the SF Symphony's complete concert recording of Bernstein's score for West Side Story, released in June 2014, which was nominated for a Grammy Award for Best Musical Theater Album and won the 2015 ICMA Award for Best Album.

The Chorus is also featured on recordings with MTT and the SF Symphony in Beethoven's Cantata on the Death of Emperor Joseph II, Symphony No. 9, and Mass in C major; Mahler's Symphony No. 2 and Das klagende Lied; Ives's An American Journey; and selections from Berlioz's Lélio. The Chorus, under the direction of Conductor Laureate Herbert Blomstedt, can also be heard in Grieg's incidental music for Peer Gynt; its first recording of Mahler's Symphony No. 2, which was nominated for a Grammy; and a collection of choral works by Brahms. The Chorus has recorded John Adams's Harmonium twice, on ECM under Edo de Waart's direction and on Nonesuch with the composer conducting; Gordon Getty's Annabel Lee and Young America with MTT and the SF Symphony in live concerts for inclusion in a Pentatone Classics disc of Getty choral works; and Jerod

Impichchaachaaha' Tate's Tracing Mississippi and Iholba with the SF Symphony for Thunderbird Records. The Chorus has released two solo recordings: Christmas by the Bay, which was released in 1998 on the Delos label and nominated for a Grammy in the Best Classical Crossover category, and Voices 1900/2000, released on the Delos label in 2001.

The Chorus appears in the second season of Keeping Score, the San Francisco Symphony's national television program, in Ives's Holidays Symphony. The episode aired nationwide on PBS in 2009 and is now available on DVD, Blu-ray, and for free on the Symphony's YouTube channel. The Chorus can be heard on the soundtracks of the films Amadeus, The Unbearable Lightness of Being, Godfather III, and on the video/DVD release of the Emmy-winning Sweeney Todd with the San Francisco Symphony.
